2 3 Respiratory Regulation of Acid Base Balance continued

2.3.2 Control System for Respiratory Regulation. The control system for respiratory regulation of acid-base balance can be considered using the model of a simple servo control system. The components of such a simple model are a controlled variable which is monitored by a sensor, a central integrator which interprets the information from the sensor and an effector mechanism which can alter the controlled variable. The servo control means that the system works in such a way as to attempt to
